Our Rogue this week is Glenn Blackburn. He is at the moment on the Murray River taking a well-earned 8-day holiday. Glen should be back this week to play Rom M in the preliminary final of the pool comp. The winner will face Tony R in the grand final to be played in front of a full house at a Tuesday meeting.

Dads competing at Bunnings

Remember, if you are a father don't forget to talk to your kids. Tell them you love them and tell them every day. Tell them you are always there for them for all times and forever.

If you have a Dad, tell him you love him and you're always there to assist him.

I lost my Dad when he was 43 years old, so I didn't get a chance to be his mate!

EHMS Official Pie Tasting Results.

The following members should never add sauce and pull their tummy in when eating pies; Roger, Pritary, Terry, Doug and Simon, the pie stains on their score sheets are a testament of this.

Simon judged the Gymnastics honestly scoring a pie 5.75 out of 10 Will was a teacher.....only person to give a pie 10/10 (Aldi Slow Cooked Chunky) a clear winner!

Loui had the cleanest and neatest judging sheet so he won the special prize.

Next week will be at Mordialloc at the Wine Bar.

“Words of Wisdom”

When your birthday falls on Father’s Day (which mine did this year and did in 1946ntoo) you get better presents and this year I did.

One of my presents was “COACH” after shave and it works, I know it works because Tony R wrote at the bottom of his voting sheet “ I love you Ian”.

Rest assured I will douse Wally in COACH next Tuesday on the way to the shed, so have cameras ready.

Keep smiling.

Ian

My wife was standing nude, looking in the bedroom mirror.

She was not happy with what she saw and said to me, “I feel horrible; I look old, fat and ugly. I really need you to pay me a compliment.”

I replied, “Your eyesight is damn near perfect.”

And then the fight started.....
